☐ the language of a translation furnished for the purposes of international preliminary examination (under Rule 55.2 and/or 55.3).

3. With regard to any nucleotide and/or amino acid sequence disclosed in the international application, the international preliminary examination was carried out on the basis of the sequence listing:

- ☐ contained in the international application in written form.
☐ filed together with the international application in computer readable form.
☐ furnished subsequently to this Authority in written form.
☐ furnished subsequently to this Authority in computer readable form.
☐ The statement that the subsequently furnished written sequence listing does not go beyond the disclosure in the international application as filed has been furnished.
☐ The statement that the information recorded in computer readable form is identical to the written sequence listing has been furnished.

(Any replacement sheet containing such amendments must be referred to under item 1 and annexed to this report.)

6. Additional observations, if necessary:

III. Non-establishment of opinion with regard to novelty, inventive step and industrial applicability

1. The questions whether the claimed invention appears to be novel, to involve an inventive step (to be non-obvious), or to be industrially applicable have not been examined in respect of:

☐ the entire international application,

☒ claims Nos. 47-49

because:

☐ the said international application, or the said claims Nos. relate to the following subject matter which does not require an international preliminary examination (specify):

☒ the description, claims or drawings (indicate particular elements below) or said claims Nos. 47-49 are so unclear that no meaningful opinion could be formed (specify):

see separate sheet

☐ the claims, or said claims Nos. are so inadequately supported by the description that no meaningful opinion could be formed.

☐ no international search report has been established for the said claims Nos.

2. A meaningful international preliminary examination cannot be carried out due to the failure of the nucleotide and/or amino acid sequence listing to comply with the standard provided for in Annex C of the Administrative Instructions:

☐ the written form has not been furnished or does not comply with the Standard.

☐ the computer readable form has not been furnished or does not comply with the Standard.

V. Reasoned statement under Article 35(2) with regard to novelty, inventive step or industrial applicability; citations and explanations supporting such statement

With regard to III)

The wording of claims 47-49 is such that unacceptable doubt is cast as to the extent of protection sought through these claims. Thus a meaningful assessment of the merits of these claims with regard to novelty and inventive step is not possible.

With regard to V)

The wording of claim is so broad that a whole range of conventional systems fall within the scope of present claim 1. For instance, claim 1 is anticipated by a combination of a digital camera, a compact flash card and a photodeveloping station in a shop, or by the combination of a digital camera and a camera docking station on a computer. It even appears to be anticipated by unmanned Mars explorers, which relay their visuals through some base station. Thus the subject-matter of claim 1 is not novel.

Claim 41 has the same deficiencies.

Dependent claims 2-40 and 42-46 likewise appear to concern features that are both conventional and trivial in nature and thus do not appear to introduce any novel features.
